

Reduce, Reuse & Recycle

Going Green with KEYfields iWMS and CrimsonLogic eTrade TradeWeb™ Integrator

Have you ever wondered why?

- Your shipping and warehousing departments are always in constant communications with each other in the form of emails, phone calls and faxes?
- When transactional activities increase in your organization due to new account or seasonal spikes, additional headcounts performing 'documentation' are always needed in both the shipping and warehousing departments?

These are common issues faced by most companies when shipping and warehousing departments, though having the same common objective of providing the best-in-class service in their respective domains, do not possess a common internalized platform to exchange information.

Information originating from one department cannot be readily used in another department, arising in the need to manually re-enter, check, re-check, confirm, and re-confirm information across departments. The above process is further made complicated by the frequent information change in this fast pace and dynamic business landscape.

How Going Green can help?

- ONE common platform that integrates information seamlessly via KEYfields iWMS & iCON
- Information visibility and consistency across the organization by using trade declarations from governing bodies as base documents
- Improved work flow as the system guides users on follow-up actions
- Reduce data entry, Reuse & Recycle available information and Reunite your processes
